L&T Technology Services

Sl No.	Name	Aptitude Test	JAM/GD	Interview experience	Technical Subjects	Other Comments
1	Jyothsna H N	There were two rounds of online assessments. First assessment was Aptitude (numerical, reasoning and verbal ability) with few domain questions. And the second assessment was embedded (Domain) with pseudocode.	No JAM/GD.	On clearing both the assessments, last and final round was HR Interview. The interviewer mainly wanted to check for my communication and background. So, the questions asked are: 1.Tell me about yourself. 2.What are your interests? 3.Tell me about your family background. 4.Why did you choose Engineering? 5.Brief about your projects.	Domain with quite programming knowledge.	Be confident enough to answer the questions. Good communication skills are important.
2	RAHUL A M	Yes, there is two rounds of online test in "first round based on verbal ability, reasoning ability, Quantitative ability, and two programming questions. "Second round based on core related questions which related to embedded system and technical questions and two programming questions.	No GD round direct HR round	They conducted only HR interview in that She asked to 1.Introduce about yourself and your family. 2.She raised questions based on hobbies like how was your travelling experience and how many places visited as per now. 3.she raised questions based on my Sports activities like as a captain still now how many tournaments you went and how was that experience. In critical time how you handle your team. 4. five mins discussion about covid is spam or real. 5. She asked any questions to ask and I raised 3 to 4 questions based on company profile.	C programming is enough for this profile.

3	Anand Prakash Tiwari	Embedded based and coding (2 rounds)	HR	Introduction, project, family background, relocation, about company	Embedded	